

Human Writes

America Offline

Over 3,000 men and women are imprisoned on America's Death Row. America remains the only civilised western democracy on earth perpetuating this form of punishment. People sentenced to death are mostly drawn from America's poor and dispossessed. Many could not afford good legal representation and most did not have fair trials.

Human Writes provides support in the form of letter writing from correspondents in Britain. This can be fulfilling and enlightening for both prisoners and correspondents. If you'd like to become a correspondent or would like to know more about what Human Writes does, contact:
